RELIABANK'S JOHNSONS NAMES STATE'S OUTSTANDING PHILANTHROPISTS

Dave and Jan Hovey Johnson of Watertown, owners of Reliabank, were named the state's 2023 Outstanding Philanthropists by the South Dakota Chapter of the Association of Fundraising Professionals at a luncheon in Chamberlain on Monday, Sept. 25. The Johnsons were recognized for their significant support of the Goss Opera House in Watertown, the Estelline Bandstand and Gazebo Park, and the historic Farmers State Bank in Hazel. Significant organizations they have helped include Augustana University, Lutheran Social Services' Adoption Services, their home church, Lutheran Church of Our Redeemer in Watertown, Friends of South Dakota Public Broadcasting and countless others.

Most recently, Jan Hovey Johnson provided funding for a new Center for Western Studies publication, "Old Trails and New Roads In South Dakota History," released in January 2023. Their support of Lutheran Social Services Adoption Services has expanded the organization's ability to facilitate successful adoptions.

Jan Hovey Johnson told KXLG News that, with so much need in the world, choosing which causes to support takes a lot of thought.

The Johnsons collaborate with their children, who also play important roles in Reliabank's business, when it comes to philanthropic giving, developing a family-centered approach to long-range planning.

Because their giving crosses from the personal to the business side important discussions are also held with the bank's staff and governing board. Input from a broad perspective is solicited, listened to, and incorporated into a final plan. The hardest part is having to say no to some requests.

The Johnsons don't seek out recognition for their philanthropy, but she said this award is very much appreciated.

JOSH HOGUE Chairman of the ICBSD Board of Directors

Reliabank's Josh Hogue has taken the helm as Chairman of the ICBSD Board of Directors. Athletics have played an important role throughout Josh's life, the effects of which are still benefiting him today. Whether in the bank, at home with his family or serving his community, Josh is known for his relentless, self-betterment mentality. He continually strives to improve himself so that he can better support those who rely on him. This is one of the many qualities that makes Josh a great advocate for independent community banking in South Dakota.

ICBSD is in good hands with you, Josh!

ANN BUCKMILLER Independent Banker's 40 Under 40 Community Bank Leader Award (education category)

In Independent Banker's fifth annual 40 Under 40 community bank leaders awards, they recognized those who are making a difference in their banks and communities through trailblazing innovations, a philanthropic spirit and a dedication to their industry. Congratulations Ann, on being named one of the 40 community bank leaders. We appreciate your commitment to banking education, banking programs, associations, AND Reliabank. The article notes Ann's consistent efforts to attract students to the finance industry. Over the years, she's mentored high school students, spoken on panels to college students about the benefits of working in community banking, and got involved in the Emerging Leader and Women in Banking programs of South Dakota's banking association.

LEADERSHIP WATERTOWN:

Two of our lenders, Nick Moffenbier and Nate Hulscher, were part of the graduation recognition for Leadership Watertown. This program is designed to teach participants to effectively participate in community affairs by exposing them to community structure, problems, resources, people, and decision-makers. Congratulations!
